

CHAPTER 2

The Separation and the Atonement

The separation from God is maintained by your belief that you created yourself and that you, of yourself can obtain what you now project as a need to fill what you feel as a lack. All creating, by either God or you, occurs by an extension of ones own inner radiance. You are now in a dream of separation in which illness is some form of external searching. All fear is lack of trust in god.

The Atonement as Defense

You can perform any miracle if you did not have fear, doubt or denial. The right use of denial would be to deny that anything has the power to hurt you. Your heart is where your treasure is. Free your will to recognize what it is that you really treasure, and the means will be given.

The Atonement is the final lesson against your belief in differences. Time, and the idea of evolution, is a device to help you to progressively free yourself from your errors of the past. A total commitment is needed, one of letting go of all defenses. This is what is meant by, "the meek shall inherit the earth." The miracle turns the defense of Atonement to your real protection.

The Altar of God

To accept the Atonement you must release your Inner Light. This comes, not from the physical body, but from the invisible altar within the physical body. Eventually everyone will accept the Atonement, despite free will, because there is a limit to how much pain the soul can tolerate by miscreating. Perfect comfort come from perfect trust.

Healing is Release from Fear

All healing is essentially the release from fear. The miracle is the means, the Atonement is the principle, and healing is the result. Only the mind is capable of error, and this must be corrected at the level on which it occurs. A miracle must be expressed in a language the recipient can understand without fear. The body is merely a learning device for the mind. Material remedies for sickness represent a belief in magic.

The Function of the Miracle Worker

The sole responsibility of the miracle worker is to accept the atonement for himself. This is the miracle-mindedness, free from fear, needed to ask for miracles, trusting in Jesus to provide it. Miracles work only on the mind that has miscreated, but one must be aware of the fear people may have in releasing their beliefs. If they need physical medicines, so be it. Healing is a form of charity. Charity is perceiving the perfection in another far beyond his actual accomplishments.

The miracle is always a denial of an error in perception and an affirmation of the truth. "Being of one mind" is to heal the split mind. Do it in remembrance of Me as an appeal for a cooperative effort. "I am here only to be truly helpful and I do not have to worry what to say."

Fear and Conflict

Fear must be self-controlled by changing your mind and your thoughts. Fear results from a lack of mind control, allowing it to miscreate. Correction comes from asking the Holy Spirit (Jesus) before doing anything. Fear only comes from a split and conflicted mind. Fear arises from a lack of love. Perfect love is the Atonement. There are no idle thoughts. Thought and belief can literally move mountains.

Cause and Effect

Miracle working entails a full realization of the power of thought. You cannot master fear other than shifting your thoughts to love. Readiness merely describes the willingness or potential to change your mind. Mastery will then follow.

Meaning of the Last Judgement

The Last Judgment merely means the final sorting out of what is worthy and what is not, what is true and what is not. Your primary goal now is to free yourself from fear!
